THE HOME DOCTOR.

To cure nose bleeding, tie a string very tightly around the small part of the thumb below the knuckle.

Half a teaspoonful of table salt dissolved in a half glassful of cold water will give instant relief in case of heartburn.

People with poor digestion should drink no water with meals, but take a glassful half an hour before and drink plentifully an hour or so after each meal.

To inhale steam from a bowl of boiling water is very good for a sore throat. The sufferer should lean over the steam, drawing it in both throat and nostrils.

Many cases of indigestion, headache, neuralgia, cold hands and feet can be quickly cured by drinking slowly one or two pints of water so hot that it almost burns the throat.

Warts may be entirely removed by washing the hands two or three times a day with the water in which potatoes have been boiled or by bathing the wart several times with potato water.

Where Do the Cents Go?

Nobody knows what becomes of the millions on millions of cents that are minted annually, the production varying from 25,000,000 to 90,000,000 per annum. They simply vanish from sight and are gone forever. The phenomenon seems strange and is not easily accounted for. People say, "What becomes of all the pins?" That is easily answered. Pins soon corrode, and thus are transformed into nothing that is recognizable. A copper cent, on the other hand, is indestructible, comparatively speaking. But the solution of the problem seems to be that cents are subject to more accidents than any other coins. They change hands ten times as often as dimes, for example, and, being of small value, they are not cared for.—Los Angeles Times.

A Sight.

"Do you know, I saw something remarkable just now," observed a broker to a friend in front of the Stock Exchange in Broad street.

"What was it?"

"I saw no fewer than five leading lawyers of the financial district walk past, and every one of them had his hands in his own pockets."—New York Tribune.

Obedient Instructions.

Man of the House—Teresa, I told you to call me at 7 o'clock sharp this morning. Domestic—I called yes as sharp as I could, but I couldn't wake ye.—Chicago Tribune.

Nature is a mutable cloud which is always and never the same.—Emerson.

BAD BREATH

"For months I had great trouble with my stomach and all kinds of medicine. My tongue has been actually as green as grass, my breath has been a bad odor. Two weeks ago a friend recommended Cascarets and after using them I can tell you I feel cheerful and say that they have entirely cured me. Therefore I can tell you that I shall recommend them to any one suffering from such troubles."—Chas. H. Halpern, 115 E. 12th St., New York, N. Y.

The Magic No. 8.

Number three is a wonderful mascot for Geo. H. Harris, of Cedar Grove, Me., according to a letter which reads: "After suffering much with liver and kidney trouble, and becoming greatly discouraged by the failure to find relief, I tried Electric Bitters, and as a result I am a well man today. The first bottle relieved and three bottles completed the cure. Guaranteed best on earth for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, by Red Cross Pharmacy. 50c."

INDUSTRIAL ITEMS.

There are over 100,000 persons dependent upon the New England fisheries for a living. Combined together in this industry on an equal footing is the labor of 40,000 men and a capital of $20,000,000.

Early in the last century about 80 per cent of the male workers of the United States were employed on farms. Modern machinery now enables 35 per cent of these men to do the agricultural work.

A new industry has been started in Australia in connection with rabbits. Nearly half a gallon of oil possessing valuable lubricating qualities has been obtained by a rabbit hunter at Gilgandra, New South Wales, from seventy-three pounds of skins without lessening the commercial value of the pelts.

According to the last report of the commissioner of navigation, the merchant of marine of the United States now numbers 25,008, with a gross tonnage of 6,074,989. If the present rate of construction is not checked the output of the shipyards for the current year will be the greatest since 1885.

Cocoanut Trees.

The cocoanut tree is the most valuable of plants. Its wood furnishes beams, rafters and planks; its leaves, umbrellas and clothing; its fruit, food, oil, intoxicants and sugar; its shells, domestic utensils; its fibers, ropes, sails and matting.

ANCIENT ATHENS.

Banqueting in the Grecian City in the Time of Plato.

In Professor T. G. Tucker's "Life in Ancient Athens" the author gives us as a picture of a typical banquet in that city in the time of Plato: "When all are in place the servants come round with a vessel, from which they pour water over the hands of the guests. There are brought in small tables, light and ornamental, one of which is set down before each couch for two persons, and on these are placed the several dishes as they come in order. The tables are lower than the couches, so that the right hand can reach down easily to them. Knives and forks there are none. The food is taken up with the fingers. It is true that in dealing with very soft foods or gravies or in extracting things from shells spoons were not unknown, but usually the fingers were assisted by pieces of bread hollowed out for the purpose. It is clear that there was plenty of room for neatness and daintiness in handling food, and it was no small advantage to have fingers not too sensitive.

"There were no napkins. Portions of soft bread, often especially prepared for the purpose, were used for wiping the fingers and were afterward thrown to the dogs which might be present to catch them; but, apart from the dogs, it may be something of a shock to learn that the floor, which was, of course, without a carpet, was the receptacle for shells, bones, peelings and other fragments, which were, however, swept out at a given stage of the proceedings. Conversation meanwhile must be general. The first half of dinner consists of substantial, particularly fish and birds, oaks (if they could be got), comparatively little meat (such as beef, lamb and pork) and vegetables dressed to a degree of which we should hardly approve with oil, vinegar, honey and saucers.

"During this part of the meal wine is not drunk. The Athenians kept their drinking as separate as possible from their eating. Water is then brought round again, hands are washed; the tables are carried out, the floor is swept, a chant is sung to the accompaniment of the flute, a libation of wine is poured out to the words 'to the good genius' or 'to good health,' and what we call dessert was for this reason called by the Athenians 'the second table.' On these are placed fruits, fresh and dried; salted almonds, sweetmeats, cheese and salt."
